

“The Third Sector as Civil Society in Australasia: Identity, Role and Influence in the New Century”

10th Biennial Australia New Zealand Third Sector Research Conference University of Technology, Sydney

When: 15th and 16th November, 2010
Where: University of Technology, Sydney

Do you want to be part of a vibrant community researching and working toward building strong civil society? What current issues do you experience that limit your work in the third sector? Would you like to hear how social enterprises are driving change? Do you have a passionate vision for the future of the third sector and Civil Society in Australasia?

Answering ‘yes’ to any of these questions and many more means you will want to be at the upcoming ANZTSR conference. Our exciting conference program aims to include you in shaping the future direction of Australasian third sector research and practice.

ANZTSR is Australasia’s longest established research society that seeks to strengthen both research and practice in the third sector. Our membership comprises leading third sector researchers and practitioners in our region, across the broad diversity of third sector activities.

Hurry to take advantage of our discounted early bird rates until the 8th October (2 Days = $350 or 3rd Sector Practitioner = $200 or Student = $60).

When you register to attend the two-day conference, registration ticket highlights include:

- A relaxed Sunday afternoon opening reception at the Citigate Hotel on the 14th November.
- An exciting interactive plenary discussion sponsored by the Centre for Social Impact at UNSW, facilitated by Julie McCrossin. Titled “Civil Society in 2020: Vision, Strategy, Action”, this panel comprises of community leaders from diverse segments of the third sector. Julie will invite audience participation so you can join the dialogue on the future of Australasian Civil Society.
- A keynote lunch sponsored by The Australian Centre for Philanthropy and Nonprofit Studies at QUT with distinguished guest speaker Professor Julian Disney, Director of the Social Justice program at UNSW.
- A World Café lunch and academic plenary to workshop the strategic direction of future third sector research in Australasia.
- A dynamic and stimulating program of presentations by leading Australasian third sector researchers and practitioners discussing cutting-edge research and leading practice within the sector.
- An optional conference dinner at Red Chilli Sichuan Restaurant in Chinatown on Monday 15th November.

We want to consolidate the strengths of the sector and look to the future. This is why we would like to see the broadest representation of participants at this event.
